Surveyor Baldwin Makes Report On Flow

BALDWIN REPORTS ON LAVA FLOW

[Special Bulletin Wireless]
HILO, Hawaii, Jan. 22, 1:30 p. m.—Surveyor Baldwin reached town this forenoon. He says the Kau lava flow has stopped. The Kona flow was much bigger night before last. Today reports state that the flow is less. Baldwin says that probably about a thousand feet of the Government road is covered with lava. He believes the source is very high up on the slopes of Mauna Loa. Residents of the locality say they think the outbreak is very near the top. Reports are conflicting as to the number of flows due to the different view-points. All are branches of one. No flow as yet has reached the sea. Kilauea activity has increased more. The bottom of the pit of Halemaumau is now a lake of rising molten lava.

Kilauea Stirs Up

[Special Bulletin Wireless]
VOLCANO HOUSE, Hawaii, Jan. 22, 9 a. m.—I have just returned from the Crater of Halemaumau. The pit is filling very rapidly. The floor of the crater is all covered and boiling over all its surface. Many fountains are playing. It is one of the most beautiful sights I ever saw. The Kau flow is pau. R. C. BROWN.

FLOW TOWARD KONA

[Special Bulletin Wireless]
HILO, Hawaii, Jan. 22.—Kilauea has greatly increased its activity since night before last. The crater has filled nearly two hundred feet. I have just returned from Kau. The Claudine carried an excursion of 131 people. The entire district is clouded with smoke. The glare is lighting up the mountain. Surveyor Baldwin telephones that the flow towards Kona has crossed the Government road at Kapua and is still flowing.

Kapua is a wide strip of land running from the sea to the mountain. It belongs to the Bishop Estate, and consists of a large stretch of old lava flow makai, while the upper portion is covered with mountain forest. The northern boundary of Kapua is about six miles from Hoopuloa. "I do not think that the flow can be on Kapua," said F. S. Dodge of the Bishop Estate this forenoon, just before leaving for Hawaii, where he will spend some time on business. "That land is higher than its surroundings and slopes down on both sides. I believe that the flow is on the south side of it on the Government land."

Clothes as a Help In Life

To be correctly clothed will make friends and unlock doors everywhere. The time is past when education was an all-sufficient passport and a guarantee of at least moderate prosperity. Nowadays a man is measured by his clothes as much as by his knowledge. Society and business life demands of its members the observance of a certain code in clothes. Good taste counts for more than money in this matter, and good taste is always assured in Correct Clothes for Men, bearing the label of ALFRED BENJAMIN & CO.

Time For Contractors Extended

The following cable was received today by the Bulletin, which published the advertisement for tenders by the United States Treasury Department: "Extend time for opening bids Molokai leprosy investigation station to March fourth."

"J. H. EDWARDS, 'Asst. Secretary.' The time originally set was February 1st. This means that local contractors will have ample time to make their bids."

EX-HONOLULU MEN ARE DRIVEN FROM LAW PRACTISE

The December number of the Shanghai "Bund" contains an article telling of the disbarment of Lorin Andrews, formerly Attorney General of Hawaii, and of F. M. Brooks, formerly of Honolulu. Both the attorneys have been practicing in Shanghai for some time, having passed an examination before the American consul.

They were called on to take an examination before Judge Willey, of the district court of the city of Shanghai, and he decided that they had not passed the tests and has refused them permission to practice in the British courts of the city.

Another story which has reached Honolulu in regard to the reason that the two lawyers have been disbarred is to the effect that they had been taking the cases of the lewd women of the town and defending them very successfully getting their clients off on technicalities and that as the result of this the Court had determined to take the only method of stopping them it could—disbarment.

In the story in the "Bund" it is strongly suggested that there is a prejudice in the mind of the Court against American lawyers. The Bund also comments on the fact that the two lawyers who have practiced so successfully should not be able to pass an examination.

MARIPOSA COMES TO GET FUEL OIL

Steamer From Tahiti Could Not Reach San Francisco

CAPT. LAWLESS MEETS MANY FORMER FRIENDS

HE SAILED IN AND OUT OF HONOLULU FOR A GREAT MANY YEARS ON STEAMER AUSTRALIA

The Oceanic steamship Mariposa, which takes care of the run between San Francisco and Tahiti, arrived in the harbor this morning at 9:30 to obtain a supply of fuel oil. She was held outside the harbor at Tahiti for 24 hours on her down trip by heavy seas, which were breaking so fiercely over the bar that it was hardly safe to enter and this, combined with the fact that she had faced headwinds all the way, used a great deal of fuel and the supply ran short. No oil can be obtained in Tahiti.

When it was reported that the Mariposa had been sighted it was at first thought that Diamond Head Charlie (Continued on Page 2.)

De Bolt Roasts Peters, The Attorney General, Who Comes Back Hard

INTERLOCUTORY DECREE CANCELLED

Judge De Bolt this morning roasted the Attorney General's department to a rich dark brown, in delivering his decision reversing his own ruling in the matter of the interlocutory decree in the Lanai lands case. Attorney General Peters promptly comes back at the Court, defending his actions in the matter and implying broadly that the Judge has not only exceeded his authority but is actuated by something more than a desire to see that justice is done in the matter. The Court's action in cancelling the interlocutory decree and the order allowing an appeal will be ignored by the Attorney General, and he will go ahead with the case before the Supreme Court on Friday.

Judge John Thomas De Bolt this morning performed the almost unprecedented act of overruling himself, and incidentally attempted to sit down on the Attorney General's department in a most emphatic manner. He withdrew his interlocutory decree in the Lanai lands matter and cancelled his own order allowing the Territory to take an appeal to the Supreme Court.

In so doing the Judge took occasion to make a few of the caustic remarks for which he is famous. He declared that he was ashamed both of himself and of the Attorney General and he hoped the aforesaid Attorney General felt the same way about the matter. The Attorney General promptly replied that he certainly was not ashamed of himself, at any rate. The Judge's decision will make no difference to the Territory so far as the conduct of the case is concerned. Attorney General Peters states that he does not believe that Judge De Bolt's action will stand for a minute before the Supreme Court. The matter is now up before that body and Judge De Bolt, according to the opinion of Peters and Milverton, has effectively lost jurisdiction and all the orders and rulings that he may make can have absolutely no effect. It will be necessary, they state, for the Judge to make a motion before the Supreme Court to dismiss the appeal which has already been taken, and they have no fear of the result. The Supreme Court, they believe, will (Continued on Page 2)
